Esquire J. P. M. Deck
Esquire W. J. Kimery

Dear Brethren:

The Court missed you two gentlemen last Monday very much, and during the busy session some suggested that we write you, expressing our appreciation for the long years of service you have given this county, and more particularly the good people who have sent you as their representative during this time.

It has been suggested that we have one of the best Quarterly Counts in Tennessee; that is, it is made up of men of high integrity, noble purposes, and genuine christian character. I believe this is true of all our members, and I certainly have found it true with you two gentlemen.

I am speaking the minds of all our members when I congratulate you on the good clean lives you have lived, and the excellent service you have rendered your generation, and, no doubt, the angles have rejoiced as they have watched from the glory world the good and faithful deeds you have been able to do for those who have known and loved you. With most of us it is more pleasant in the evening of life, for it is then that we have two reflections. One is the happy recollection of the past, and the other is the full assurance of the future that all is well, and for which we pause and thank God from whom all blessing flow.

You are assured that we look forward to the time when you will be able to answer the roll call, and find your rightful place among us, however, if it should please the good Lord for us all never to meet again this side of heaven, we shall look forward to meeting you in a land "where we'll never grow old."

Very truly yours,

Weakley County Quarterly Court
